GREEN - LEAN - CSR

Ever since Wildtrails began in 1994, and increasingly in recent years, we've focused on reducing our carbon footprint, in an effort to protect our planet and its inhabitants.

Discover our present and future commitments here:

CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

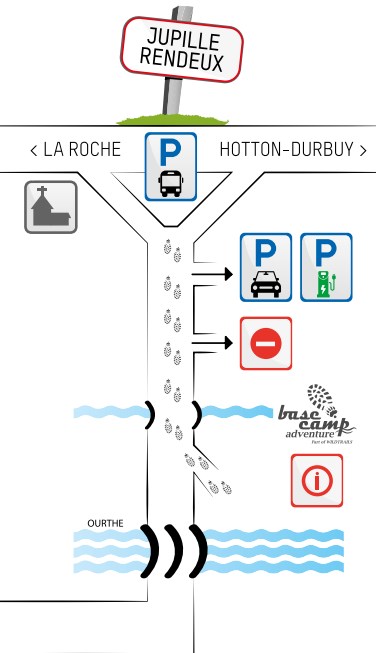

That's why we've launched a host of initiatives, such as scrapping 65,000 plastic bottles, establishing our own nature reserves, planning our activities around periods of nesting and winter hibernation, producing honey from our beehives and apple juice from our orchard, installing solar panels, tree planting, sowing wild flower meadows, creating natural ponds,...

And, following a more recent development, you can also come and charge your car at one of our 64 charging points.

Today, more than ever, we're keen to share our green commitment with our guests by offering programmes focused on nature and which make a positive difference to society: nature discovery and conservation, such as bushcraft workshops, tree planting, caring for our nature reserves, building nesting boxes, litter picking in the woods and along the river,...
